LAND DISARMAMENT

Commoner Declares Tuesday Was Great Day in History of World

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN
(Copyright 1921 by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The acceptance made by Great Britain and Japan assure the success of the arms limitation conference. If nothing more is done, it would be an epoch-making gathering, for, as Arthur Balfour declared, the work already done surpassed any reduction in armament known in all the world's history.

But what is scarcely less important, everyone seems to accept the reduction in battle ships as determining the line to be followed on other matters. The reduction in land forces can scarcely be less in proportion after the enthusiastic reception given to the scrapping of battle ships.

France at once interpreted the action taken in regard to navies as indicating what must be expected in the reduction of armies, and Premier Briand gave notice of his desire to discuss his government's position on this subject. Secretary Hughes assured him that an early opportunity would be given.

Now that the keynote has been sounded and the character of the proceedings determined, attention can be turned to less important things. Nothing, of course, could compare in importance with the substance of the acceptance made by Great Britain and Japan, but there was a minor matter which has aroused universal interest.

It was the difference in the oratory of Mr. Balfour and Premier Briand. Mr. Balfour has a fine face and his long experience in public life has given him ease of manner. He is a man of great intelligence and wide information. His speech was all that could be asked. It contained strong sentences; it was well put together; it was rhetorically excellent. His language was in keeping with his exalted thought and the audience not only listened intently, but was anxious to applaud.

Premier Briand, on the other hand, has the manner of an orator, and, though comparatively few in the galleries could understand the French language, his manner, his gestures and his emphasis seemed to tell his listeners where to applaud. They did not know what he said, but he said it in such a way that they felt it must be the right thing and broke out with expressions of approval. It is seldom one sees such a contrast in style.

When the speeches are read in the newspapers, Mr. Balfour's will be found to be an eloquent endorsement of the reduction proposed, while Mr. Briand's speech did not and could not give any such impetus to the peace movement, and yet the premier made up in delivery what his speech lacked in assurance, while Mr. Balfour's words made up in strength what his delivery lacked.

But it was a great day, and necessary to the completeness of the first day, although a premature announcement of the concurrence of the other nations lessened the dramatic features of the occasion.

CABLE ON CAR BROKE SEVEN INJURED IN BAY CITY CRASH

Car Plunged Down Hill, Knocking Everything Down Before it.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Seven persons were injured early today when a cable broke on a Fillmore street car, allowing the car to plunge uncontrolled down the steep hill near the end of the street.

None of those injured was seriously hurt, according to police reports. The cable broke as one of two cars, which are counter balanced against each other by means of a cable in order to negotiate the hill, was about to start down the steep incline.

It raced madly, broke down the hill, jumped the track, bowled over a telephone pole, smashed into a house, lifting it six feet from its foundation, and careened off to an adjacent apartment house, smashing in the front of it, before piling up, little more than a heap of wreckage.

That more were not injured was due to the fact that travel at the hour of the accident was light and most of those aboard the car were able to step to the ground the moment the cable broke.

Human Intelligence Has Not Advanced if Wars Continue

Speaking of war and "delusions about war," Henry James, in his comments on the editorial page tonight, reviews what a writer says to the effect that war is inevitable, the unavoidable release of human energy. Mr. James then remarks that to take this viewpoint is to affirm that there must be war and that human intelligence has not advanced. It sets men down as ravenous beasts, and Mr. James differs from this opinion.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" takes you back to the boys of 40 years ago who were no better than the boys of today.

Dr. Frank Crane finds some things that government can't do, and he writes interestingly on the subject.

Della Stewart says that the path to true achievement lies through a maze of difficulties which must be conquered.

Other timely subjects are discussed on the editorial page, which is presented to you each evening in the knowledge that you will find inspiration and food for thought.

Report of Committee of East Glendale Railroad Ass'n Given

Financial Statement of Association is Submitted in Answer to Suit Filed Asking for Accounting; Forty People Gather to Hear Report

About forty persons interested in the work undertaken by what was known as the "East Glendale Railroad Association" when it was organized about 1912, gathered at the Broadway school Tuesday evening to hear the report of the committee relative to funds collected and expenditures made by them. Some of those present had been named as plaintiffs in a complaint recently filed in the superior court asking for an accounting. P. S. McNutt being the attorney of record.

The complaint charged that $40,000 had been subscribed for the purpose of enabling the railroad committee to obtain a right of way for the Pacific Electric railroad from San Fernando and Brand northwesterly to Broadway and Everett streets, and that the railroad had not materialized and no accounting had been made by the committee.

Printed slips headed "Chamber of Commerce Railway Committee Report" were distributed at the meeting showing receipts and expenditures. The statement revealed that of the $40,000 subscribed, $16,346 was never paid in; that the cost of the property it was necessary to purchase equaled approximately $30,000, the extra funds amounting to approximately $7,000, being secured from the sale of buildings on the property purchased on the property purchased.

The committee secured the extension of the Pacific Electric railroad on Broadway from Brand to the present terminus, and secured a right of way for a loop back to Brand as far south as Moore street, now known as Palmer avenue, but the railroad refused to extend its tracks until the balance of the right of way was secured. Meanwhile the world war came on and it was impossible to carry through the project, the mortgages mentioned matured and to avoid foreclosure expense the property was deeded to the mortgagees and the committee has now on hand a balance in cash of about $20.

These explanations were made by Spencer Robinson, P. H. Vesper and other members of the committee who added that had the $16,000 which was pledged and never paid been available the entire right of way as planned could have been secured and the Pacific Electric railroad would have carried out its agreement.

As a net result of the effort the extension of the line to its present terminus on Broadway was secured and the Pacific Electric has recently secured as a means of carrying out in good faith its original agreement, a franchise for a bus line which will cover the proposed loop and deliver passengers for Los Angeles to the P. E. line on Brand without extra charge.

The meeting was a harmonious one and every person present who had been named as a plaintiff announced his withdrawal from any participation in the suit, some stating that they had been made a party to it without their knowledge or consent.

F. H. Vesper and Spencer Robinson, in speaking of the meeting, stated that all except three plaintiffs were present; also that the suit had been promoted by a person who was not a party to it and who had never subscribed nor paid a dollar towards the fund to secure the extension of the Pacific Electric line.

Plaintiffs named in the complaint filed are: C. G. Edwards, Chris Smith, H. Heide, J. N. Parish, S. R. Dixon, George F. Dair, Malinda Fleming, J. C. Pierce, E. Quinch, N. M. Miller, Alfred Woodman, J. F. Chandler, Cynthia La Rowe, V. G. Dean, O. A. Bishop, John Melver, Augusta Askland, F. M. Farrand, B. S. Quick, J. C. Sherer, F. R. Sinclair, K. C. Sippel, W. E. Pelley, D. E. Mallett, W. R. Walker estate, D. W. Hunt, D. J. Graham estate, L. J. Dewing and Frank Campbell. These as stated are represented.

WOMAN SPRINGS BIG SENSATION TODAY ARBuckle CASE

Reported She Said She Believed Man Innocent; Wanted on Jury

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The prosecution in the case of Roscoe Arbuckle today sprang a sensation when Deputy District Attorney Milton U'Ren charged that one of the women tentatively accepted as a juror, Mrs. Edith Unsworth, had expressed the opinion that Arbuckle was innocent shortly before court opened this morning, and that she said she was anxious to get on the jury. U'Ren asked permission to reopen the questioning of Mrs. Unsworth, which the court granted.

Mrs. Unsworth said that a young woman had approached her shortly before court opened and asked her if she didn't want to be on the jury. "Of course I do," she said.

She denied, however, that she had said she thought Arbuckle was innocent and that she wanted to get on the jury to get him off.

U'Ren also asked her regarding another remark she was alleged to have made to a woman, which was to the effect: "Pray for me so that I can get on the jury." Mrs. Unsworth explained that the woman in question was old and a sort of religious fanatic, and that the woman had said to her:

"What can I pray for you for?" To which she said she had replied jokingly: "Oh, pray for me to get on the Arbuckle jury."

U'Ren said the prosecution could produce witnesses who heard Mrs. Unsworth say she thought Arbuckle innocent and wanted to get on the jury to free him. The court instructed U'Ren to have affidavits of these charges made by the persons in question, and present them to the court.

LAND DISARMAMENT LOOMS AS MEANS OF CONTROVERSY

French Probably Seek to Keep Its 800,000 Army for Protection

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Land disarmament—heretofore submerged by the vaster problem of naval limitation—is destined to play an important and perhaps troublesome part in the arms parity.

A clash between British and French viewpoints is in the cards. France wants to keep her army of 800,000; England wants the army reduced, holding it and the policies behind it are a stumbling block to British commerce and industry.

Premier Briand believes he can reach the American ear better now than ever before. He will speak at the next open session, presenting his arguments for maintaining France's army. He intends to picture France confronted with the German menace; France entrusted with enforcing the Versailles treaty, facing a hostile people across the Rhine, France standing guard over civilization against the bolshevik threat.

He does not intend to demand a treaty or guaranty from America as a substitute for the land armaments. But Briand wants to show the "why" for the 800,000 men, arguing that they are part of the play for keeping world peace.

Great Britain and France indulge in the customary diplomatic protestations of extreme friendship; the fact, however, is that this amity has been wrenched on more than one occasion since the war. And, today, almost any honest Britisher who speaks his thoughts will admit his country is not solidly back of the French policy toward Germany and Russia.

It is because England's merchant fleet, formerly plying in the Black Sea, the Baltic and the north German ports is largely tied up and the factories which filled the holds of this fleet are stilled. England lays it to France, her army, and what England begins to see as a militaristic attitude on France's part toward Germany and Russia.

RALPHS BUILDING GOES UP RAPIDLY

Second Floor to be Occupied by Local Lodge of Odd Fellows

One of the busiest corners in Glendale is Orange and Broadway, where the future home of the Ralphs Grocery Co. is under construction. Numerous truck-loads of lath, brick, cement and lumber are on the ground. The mammoth concrete piers which will support the building are in place, and the work in general is being pushed along as rapidly as 20 active workmen can rush it. If work continues throughout the entire construction of this building as it has started it will be but a few weeks before this building is completed and ready for occupancy. The building will be a two-story structure. A large portion of the second floor will be occupied by Glendale Lodge No. 388, Independent Order of Odd Fellows. With the exception of trimming the building will consist entirely of brick and steel and will be a strictly class A structure.

That his business establishment is filling a place in the business life of South Glendale that up to the time of his coming here has been vacant, is the assertion of B. V. Brasher, proprietor of the South Glendale Variety store, 1413 South San Fernando road. During the past few days additional shipments of goods have been arriving, so that his stock is fairly complete. Mr. Brasher is one of the most recent boosters of the business section of South Glendale and he is already advocating different reforms and improvement ideas that, if put into operation, would do much for the advancement of that section.

After being confined for several days at the Glendale Sanitarium, where she was taken suffering from a severely cut arm, sustained in an automobile accident, Mrs. Ella Baldwin has returned to her home at 1517 South San Fernando road.

So active has been the business of the Glendale Carpet and Mattress Works of 1411 South San Fernando road, that the manager is contemplating the enlargement of his establishment in the very near future. With the enlargement of the building will come the installation of a quantity of new machinery, and an improvement of the place in general.

A party consisting of Mrs. Lorraine Burnett, formerly of Union City, Mich., and Mrs. Ellen Gifford and nephew, Fred Gifford, have returned to their home in South Glendale, after a very enjoyable visit with friends in San Diego.

GENERAL DELIVERY KEPT BUSY HERE EVERY WEEK DAY

Average of 150 Call for Mail
at Window Each Day
Says Supt. Hallett

According to Geo. Hallett, superintendent of the Los Angeles branch postoffice in Glendale, there are approximately 150 people in this city who have no permanent home, at least if they have a permanent home, it is not in this city.

There is one sign that is infallible in picking out strangers. They call at the general delivery window of the postoffice for their mail. The postal law allows a stranger 30 days in which to secure a permanent address. To receive mail at the general delivery window after 30 days in Glendale requires a written application for permission to do so, giving reasons, etc., for such request.

Mr. Hallett says that there is an average of 150 people calling daily at the window of the Glendale branch of the Los Angeles postoffice. This average was not arrived at by a haphazard estimate but is the result of a careful check. A man was stationed at the window and kept count of the number of people calling for mail at the general delivery window and found that there was about 130 daily. Since that check was taken, the number has increased, says Superintendent Hallett.

Mrs. J. L. Pickrell of San Diego has come to stay a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Terry, at 257 Windermere avenue.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes
Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist. Adv.

POISONED CELERY STILL FOUND HERE

Public is Warned That it is Not Safe to Buy Celery for Time Being

In spite of the recent warning issued to the seller, raiser and consumer of celery in Glendale, that vast quantities offered for sale are injurious to the health of the people on account of having been sprayed with an arsenic solution, Sanitary Inspector Hollenbeck says that he has discovered several stands that are offering this celery for sale. Samples have been taken from these stands and the proprietors will in all probability be prosecuted. Three samples were taken from stands that continued to sell poisoned celery after the Health Department of the city warned all fruit and vegetable stands to discontinue sale. These samples were tested and positive indications of arsenic solution were found.

Monday afternoon Health Officer J. E. Eckles and Sanitary Inspector Hollenbeck were witnesses in Judge Chambers' court in Los Angeles at the trial of T. Miramoto, of South Glendale, charged with spraying celery with an arsenic solution before offering it for sale. Miramoto entered plea of not guilty to the charge, was arraigned and testimony given. Miramoto was released under a $200 cash bail and his trial set.

The county is preparing to file action against several Japanese growers in the West Adams and Long Beach districts on similar charges. A case of a like nature was tried in Long Beach on Tuesday.

HERE'S A GOOD ONE FAVOR OF HONESTY

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 16.—Mrs. H. M. Farrell, sixty-eight, worried over an unpaid bill for $1.50 for forty-nine years. Then she came to this city from her home in Pittsburgh to pay the bill contracted when she was a young girl attending school here with the firm of George M. John & Co. She had an account with the store and left the city owing $1.50, which debt, she said, she could not dismiss from her mind. Mr. John, head of the firm, is still living, though no longer actively connected with the store. She hunted him up at his home and paid the bill.

Mrs. L. V. Moulden of 140 North Central avenue is quite ill. She recently returned from a trip to the East, during which she attended the national encampment of the G. A. R.

MAIL THEM EARLY IS SUPT. HALLETT'S INSTRUCTION

Guarantee Efficient Handling of Mail, Get Packages on Their Way

As the holiday period approaches Superintendent Hallett of the Glendale branch of the Los Angeles postoffice passes out some valuable advice relative to mailing Christmas packages. The advice is prefaced by the plea to "Mail Your Packages Early."

Superintendent Hallett says that on account of the size of the Glendale branch office the usual congestion during the holiday season will work against giving efficient service. This congestion can be lessened to a large degree if everyone will mail their Christmas packages as early as possible. Mr. Hallett points to the fact that the lobby of the Glendale branch is very small and the average Christmas crowd would necessitate crowding the lobby during the every business hour during the Christmas season.

Following are Superintendent Hallett's instructions regarding mailing Christmas packages:

You must mail your letters and packages early if you want them delivered by Christmas.

Always place your return address on all mail, then it will be returned to you or you will be notified if it is not delivered. Otherwise it will be sent to the dead letter office or destroyed. Address your mail properly, to street number or room number. Be sure your Christmas packages to your friends are properly packed. Seventy-five percent of the causes of delay, non-delivery or breakage of mail matter is due to mistakes made by mailers in improper addressing, packing or wrapping. Christmas packages numbering 730,000 were never delivered last year because they were improperly wrapped and became loose in the mails.

If your package is valuable it should be registered or insured; otherwise the department will pay no indemnity if it is lost. The registry fee is 10 cents, insurance fees 3, 5, 10 and 25 cents.

Postal employees are not mind readers. If they were they would not be in the postoffice. The office wants to help you get your packages and letters, but you must help the employees, by complying with these instructions.

FOLSOM GUARD SHOT REVIVAL BRINGS OPERATOR THOUGHT WAS CONVICT GREAT INTEREST

Guard Cowan Used Sawed-off Shotgun on Innocent Man Tuesday

REDDING, Nov. 16.—Charles E. Bradbury, powerhouse operator at Junction City Trinity church, was shot in the leg by E. D. Cowan, guard from Folsom penitentiary, last night when Cowan mistook Bradbury for an escaped convict he was hunting.

Bradbury's right leg was fractured by the charge of buckshot from the guard's sawed-off shotgun. Cowan met Bradbury on the highway at 11 o'clock last night and in the moonlight mistook him for one of the two convicts who escaped recently from the state highway road camp.

Earlier in the day a miner had encountered the two convicts, named Murray and Witterwood. Murray had surrendered while Witterwood fled. Murray then agreed to bring back Witterwood if permitted to take up the trail. Permission was given by the miner and Murray did not return. Cowan had then taken up the trail.

Mr. Cronise has only been in Glendale for the past month but he is one of the strongest boosters in the city.

"I am giving up a good practice in Santa Barbara to move to Glendale and make a new start simply because I like Glendale better than my former home," said Mr. Cronise, explaining why he is making the change. One of Mr. Cronise's first acts after securing a location for his office was to join the chamber of commerce, adding to the proof that he is a strong booster for Glendale and willing to back up his boosting with action.

The prospect of a wrestling match between "Bull" Montana, the Adonis of the movies, and John (Young) Hackenschmidt of Glendale under the auspices of the American Legion is being greeted with joy by members of the Glendale Post No. 127 and the general public.

Emil Kiefer, commander of the Glendale Post said that the Legion will be glad to promote a match between the two wrestlers. Hackenschmidt, before his match with "Butch" Metzetti said he wanted a match with the handsome "Bull" and would meet him in Glendale at any time. An attempt will be made to bring the two wrestlers together at an early date and arrange details of the match. Both wrestlers have reputations of more than local note and a match between the two should be one of the stellar attractions for the year in local sport circles.

AMERICA GO AFTER TRADE IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Plans for going after America's share of trade with Germany are being prepared in official quarters here as the first big step following the peace proclamation. President Harding is understood to be anxious to build up an American trade organization in Germany at an early date. He is actually speeding plans for re-establishment of consular and diplomatic circles there. Inquiry regarding the acceptability of Congressman Houghton, New York for ambassador to Germany, is expected to go to Berlin at once and the President is hopeful of announcing his appointment officially within a few days. Word that Germany prefers to send a charge d'affaires here for the present and delay the appointment of an ambassador to the United States, will make no change in President Harding's plans, it was said at the White House.

DO IT NOW!

Build that house now; construct that highway at once; build that school, that church, repair that broken pavement; build that garage, and even that chicken coop, now—not tomorrow.

Go ahead with your plans; speed the nation on the road to full employment and thus hasten the day of individual and national prosperity and safety.

Preach this everywhere; put it into effect, and remember, business men of Glendale, men of "big business" and men of "little business," that there is something in this infinitely higher and more important than the small amount of money involved which you think you could save by waiting.

Some men put off the day of salvation, expecting to attend to it on their death bed, but not many ever succeed in doing it at that hour. "Do it now, and do it with all your might," should be the motto of every man in Glendale who expects to do any construction work in the near future. "Do it now," and thus do your part toward individual and national business salvation—and even more.

Procrastination is more than the thief of time; it is the murderer of opportunity.

Truths in Epigram

In the mountains of truth you never climb in vain. Either you already reach a higher point today, or you exercise your strength in order to be able to climb higher tomorrow.—Nietzsche (1844-1900).

Absence diminishes little passions and increases great ones, as the wind extinguishes candles and fans a fire.—La Rochefoucauld (1613-1680).

MUZZLING THE TEACHER

An instructor in a university in this state lately announced that he desired to say certain things before anybody had muzzled him. He then proceeded to say the things in question. They did not lead to the conclusion that he need to fear a muzzle. If he were to be restrained of the liberty to utter such opinions, liberty would have to be considerably nearer death than generally it is regarded.

The professor averred that some sinister influence was at work in Washington on behalf of the German dye industry. The statement is in no way surprising. Almost any industry that desires to be especially favored has some influence at work for it, and more often than not, it is the type of influence mentioned by the professor.

People do not have to be strongly disposed in favor of protection as a principle, in order to see that it is better to have American dyes, and products, than to depend for these things upon Germany. It seems to be a fact that American manufacturers cannot, in respect of these manufacturers, compete with Germany. If German dyes are permitted to flood the country, changing the complexion of trade, one might say, the American competition simply quits. There is no alternative.

Consumers might not rebel if there was any gain in this for them. More than likely they are willing to buy where they can buy cheapest. If Germany, however, were to get the monopoly for which the sinister influence discerned by the professor, is working, there would be no cheap dyes available. The idea back of the sinister influence is not the making of cheap dyes, but of bringing about a situation enabling German manufacturers to charge any figure they desire.

FIGHTING FOR TERRITORY

In the history of nations battles have been fought for land. The low status of human intelligence in the beginning, comprehended no other method. If the surviving tendency to fight for land could be effaced, there must follow lessened occasion for war.

When an individual desires a piece of ground, ordinarily described in the deed as a "parcel," he first ascertains who owns it, and then the price that would be acceptable to the owner. He does not pretend that he himself has any right to it except through purchase. To organize his hired men, equip them with pitchforks, and take the coveted land by force, is a thought that does not occur to him. Were he to act upon such impulse, he would be penalized as a criminal, and not only kept from the land he wanted, but not permitted to use such land as already he had.

There appears no insuperable reason why nations in their dealings should not be controlled by a moral and statutory code similar to that which governs individuals.

A nation is organized as a unit. It is thus enabled to control its citizens or subjects. They tacitly subscribe to constitutional restraint and guidance. If in instances they refuse to do so, they are removed from the sphere of activity for a sufficient time to enable them to reform.

When nations have organized as a collection of entities, and have established regulations for all, with tribunals for enforcement, they may be governed morally. They may be made to behave as well as individuals must behave.

The outcry against any alliance is mischievous, in so far as it is effective at all. In the continued absence of an alliance, the world would have to blunder on in the same old stupid way. The disarmament conference means an alliance, or it means nothing.

KANSAS POLITICAL PARTIES

It is said that a political party is to be formed in Kansas. The proposed head of it suffers just now under the mischance of being in jail. This does not lessen the play of his mental activities, but otherwise is a handicap. The man's name is Howat. He was sent to prison for disobeying the law. Of course, if he shall be able to control politics to the extent of causing the formulation of a new code more pleasing to his taste, the achievement will have to be reckoned a triumph.

Howat is executive officer of the miners in Kansas. He defied the mandate of the industrial court. This got him in bad, very literally. He also defied the orders of the national body of miners, declaring a strike when executive headquarters had instructed him not to do so. The men stood by him. He thus is the cause of a strike that is creating great hardship, and that is without authorization, it being an outlaw strike.

Sheer ability to kick up a row does not seem exactly the attribute that should mark the organizer of a great political party. The puzzle as to where Howat is to get his following still remains to be solved. A few hundred miners much in disfavor because of the discomfort they have made for their neighbors, and who have lifted themselves out of good standing with organized labor, would seem to be rather ineffective as a political party.

Years ago Kansas witnessed the birth of the populist party. It lasted quite awhile, extended to other states, and exercised some influence. Several of its leaders had ideas, all of them had whiskers, which they wagged right merrily in debate. They really did not do much, but they had the advantage of Howat's klan in not being locked up.

FRANK AND EXPLICIT

Doubtless the opening move of the United States at the conference was amazing to statesmen everywhere, addicted to ancient methods of diplomacy. It was a frank, immediate and explicit declaration of faith. It was a challenge, in no sense hostile, to the policy of secretiveness.

The proposal of a ten years' holiday in the building of capital ships, the scrapping of ships now under construction, the scrapping of old, but still serviceable ships, constitutes a program amazing because so wholly unbuttressed by precedent. It is bold, and it is stupendous and unique. This is the age of big things.

With this plan carried out in detail there would be ships enough left for self defense. This country has not the faintest desire for conquest. It is not aggressive. There may come a time when capital ships shall not be needed even to guard the home shores. Such a time would be the concomitant of a peaceable and honest world.

Were the people of the United States relieved of the burden of building ships, they could, in perfect consonance with the spirit thus indicated, devote many millions to education, to the building of roads, to promoting health, to the redemption of land, to the relief of ex-soldiers.

The cost of a single battleship would erect and endow a university.

Doubtless there would be a commercial outcry against cessation of armor plate manufacture. The makers of great guns would raise loud lament. In these respects there need be no loss. Erection of buildings has been held back by lack of steel to be fabricated into frames. Cars have run over worn out rails, because the demand for new rails could not be met. Steel concerns habitually are behind on their orders.

Even with the reduction in the navy program, the navy would offer an honorable career. It is short of officers now. There would be left a fleet of adequate size for the purpose for which the fleet of the next decade is to be employed. It is highly improbable, however, that the country after ten years of freedom from the expense of building $50,000,000 ships, would revert to the old course.

The nation has taken great pride in its navy. It could take a far greater pride in aiding to bring about conditions that would permit reduction of the potency of the navy.

If a creditor nation would be glad to discontinue building capital ships, the debtor nations, groaning under obligation, ought to rejoice at the opportunity to follow the suggestion. The verdict is up to them.

Influence is being brought to suppress the practice of making public show of weddings. This does not refer to the amount that may be expended with the caterer, the jeweler or the modiste. It has reference to the wedding in the dance hall, or aboard an airplane, or attended by other feature tending to make it into a vulgar show.

Re-election of Hylan as mayor of New York was due to the insistency of voters upon a five-cent street car fare. They believe the local lines are trying to pay dividends on enormous quantities of watered stock, and they do not consider themselves under obligation to supply the dividends.

The law against the glaring headlight is one of the traffic regulations that has been ignored or flouted from the first. Blinding people before killing them, so that they may not be distressed by realizing what is happening, is a common highway occurrence.

What Government Cannot Do

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The governments of the world have discovered, or are discovering, that there is something that is bigger than any of them.

The great laws that govern mankind and create the happiness or misery of the people are not laws that are passed by any parliament or congress.

The vast forces that produce plenty or famine, prosperity or unemployment, are not forces that originate at kings' tables or statesmen's councils.

Which is now being shown in large capital letters and words of one syllable by the chaos of exchange.

The Westminster Gazette says: "The idea that exchanges can be stabilized by any official magic is pure illusion. We might as well try to regulate heat or cold by faking the thermometer. Exchanges are the automatic register of certain conditions which must be changed before the world can resume normal trading."

"They register the loads of mutual indebtedness, the enormous quantities of goods which are expected to go out without their equivalents coming in, the doubts, hesitations and fears felt by commercial men in all countries about the policy and intentions of the governments, and the unknown possibilities of the future."

"Until these are resolved and it is possible to see clearly even a few months ahead, the exchanges will continue to fluctuate and the tendencies of the debased currencies will continue to be downwards."

The truth of the matter, which some time or other we shall have to face, is that civilization has reached a point where it must go a step beyond the stage of being managed by separate nations or perish.

Commerce or transportation have gone beyond the antiquated machinery of government. They have created already a world unity. And unless governments fall in line and form themselves into some kind of unity evolution is going to cease and the process of degeneration set in.

The quarrel over the League of Nations, or the Association of Nations, or whatever one minds to call it, is not a matter of names, or of political purpose, or of personal ambitions. It is a matter of absolute essentiality to the world.

There is never going to be any way out of the confusion of exchanges until there ceases to be a bitter confusion of governments.

Some time or other and somehow or other the nations of the world must get together and think in terms of mankind and not in terms of the Star-Spangled Banner or Vive la France.

For this matter of exchanges is most vital. It is the fundamental cause of the greater part of the economic troubles of the world. People are building no houses, they are launching no new enterprises. Capital is scared. Labor is unemployed and menacing.

And the trouble lies so deep that no one nation can cure it. Nothing but some sort of world government can apply the remedy.

THE LISTENING POST

A horse shoe nail, a cork and a feather.
Three things again.
That we used to employ as boys to make a missile.
For when you and I were boys we made many things ourselves.

That is, if you were a boy when I was.
Which was something near forty years ago.
When the shops did not carry as many things for boys as they do now.
And when we did not have the funds to buy if they did.

Boys of forty years ago were perhaps no better than boys of today.
It may be they were not as good.
It would be difficult to say.
For goodness depends on the point of view.
Goodness with one type of mind consists in getting off in the solitude somewhere and repeating things out of a book.

To another type of mind it consists in getting out among men and women and children and being useful.

On the theory that a hermit is of little use.
Unless the hermit makes something for the use of the world.

Or thinks and writes something for the glorification of the world.
A hermit who glorifies his hermitage with labor for humanity is a useful hermit.

But a hermit who is merely a hermit for the sake of hermitage is of no use whatever.
He is of as little use as the cocoanuts growing on an island where men have never been.

And where there are no monkeys or other customers of cocoanut palms.

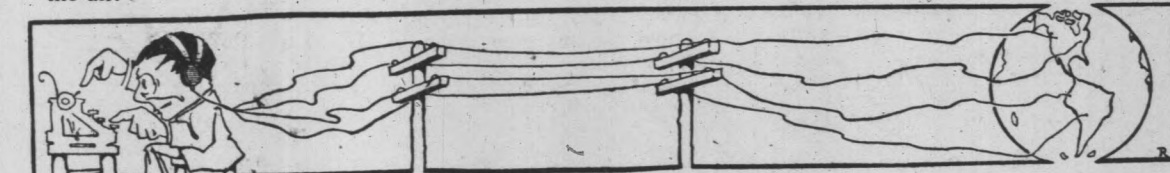

But to get back to the nail and the cork and the feather.

The boy of forty years ago used to drive the horse shoe nail through an inch of cork.
Letting the sharp point protrude.

And then he drove the sharp end of a feather into the cork at the other end.

Letting the feathery sides of the quill extend backward.

Thus he had a missile.
That he threw from his hand, gripping the cork.
And it soared gracefully and accurately through the air.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Flight of Youth—By Richard Henry Stoddard (1825-1903)

There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain:
But when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again.

We are stronger, and are better,
Under manhood's sterner reign:

Still we feel that something sweet
Followed youth, with flying feet,
And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain;
We behold it everywhere,
On the earth, and in the air,
But it never comes again.

Another of life's mysteries is why a woman whose notoriety is based on her possession of the code of morals governing an alley cat, gets on the first page.

Kentucky elections are conducive to thrills which only the survivors of them appreciate.

Many a woman weeps without getting into the papers, but if she is a woman charged with murder, reporters court her tears.

Democrats have demanded harmony in the party, and perhaps since the elimination of obnoxious members by election shootings, they will get it.

SALUTE THE DEAD

[Brooklyn Standard Union]

Trains on the Interborough lines stopped for a few minutes at the time of President Shonts' funeral. To recall a time when the whole nation stood in silence in honor of the dead, memory must go back to the funeral of President McKinley on a September afternoon twenty years ago. Elevated trains and trolley cars all stopped for five minutes in Brooklyn, and most of the men in the crowds in the streets stood with bared heads.

On Armistice day activities in the United States will cease for two minutes in honor of the American dead in the late war, typified by the unidentified soldier whose body is coming back from France to be buried in Arlington National cemetery. Our people will pause in their occupations, so far as may be possible, during those two minutes on November 11, and all will join in paying reverence to our sacred dead of the world war.

And in doing so they will dedicate themselves again to the principle of patriotism for which those heroes died, and will pledge anew their loving concern for all those who fought and suffered for the great cause.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA M. STEWART

One of the most deeply ingrained ideas of our modern civilization is that everybody must be made comfortable. The Spartan idea of brave endurance of discomfort is left far behind us. The old Roman idea of bread and a circus for the common people is entirely out of date. Instead we have been trained to demand at least electrical contrivances, steam heat, and a motor car.

Of course it's no sin to be comfortable. It's decidedly pleasant. But it's also spiced with danger. For if comfort has come to mean more to us than work honestly done, or burdens cheerfully borne, we are too much enamored with it to be real men and real women. There's no merit in life—as it often does. Too much discomfort hinders us from the best.

There are two tests to apply to our desired comfort if we are to make sure of its quality. Are we willing to share it with others, and help them to have like pleasure? And—at what sacrifice are we gaining it?

There are those who seem to gain much comfort by gloating over the delights which are theirs, but which those about them lack. Small souls these, dwarfed in egoism.

There are times, also, when the path to true achievement lies for us through a maze of difficulties which must first be conquered. Are we big enough to endure the one to gain the other? These are the tests of our metal.

on each other's heels and get in each other's way. There was never a time when so many organizations, formed for that purpose, were trying to influence legislation for their own selfish ends.

We have become a nation of organization joiners and dues payers. We are supporting an army of secretaries, "fixers," lobbyists and professional reformers.

Washington is their happy hunting ground; the national capital is their chosen arena. They fight each other all over the District of Columbia. Congress is battered, be-mazed and dumbfounded by their clamors and shriekings and overwhelmed by class-conceived measures and organization-bred bills. Legislative hearings are packed by them.

Says that veteran of Iowa politics, William S. Kenyon, who has seen ten years of senate service:

"The United States is over-organized, and at the expense of public opinion. The safety of this country lies in a consensus of judgment among intelligent people. We are drifting toward a condition in which it is impossible to get this consensus, when every industry and every avocation is closely and effectively organized."

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

Mr. Harry Carr discusses, in the Times of Los Angeles "Delusions About War." The article, without mentioning this detail, exposes the most common delusion of all. It is the belief that war is inevitable, the unavoidable release of human energy; that it is beyond cure. Of this delusion Carr is the victim.

HENRY JAMES

To affirm that there must be war, is to proclaim that human intelligence has not advanced; to ignore the new propinquity of races; to concede that savage instincts dominate the world thought. It is to admit that mankind is governed still by the theory that might makes right. It waives all consideration of humane instincts, of moral integrity, of distaste for murder and destruction.

In other words, it portrays men as what they are not. It sets them down as ravening beasts.

"There seems to be a popular belief (says Carr) that the way to end war is to have a number of respectable married ladies parade the streets with banners stating that they do not like to have their sons killed."

He adds that people always have hated war, that soldiers always have been afraid to go to war.

Perhaps all this is worthy of the correspondent who during the war precipitated by Germany, could see nothing but a German victory. It is not the whole truth, but the misleading half-truth.

The writer who insinuates that the protest of womanhood against war is futile and foolish, is taking an attitude deserving of both these terms. He is immune to the psychology of the time. He overlooks the force of opinion. If the ladies do parade, it is but a method of expressing themselves, of drawing attention to their sane and obviously correct sentiment of hostility to war.

Perhaps he thinks that when a woman comes from Japan to lay before the President the protest of 10,000 Japanese women against war, that the episode is meaningless, insignificant, ineffective.

It is possible that when he observes the women of the United States, England, France, Belgium, Italy—the women of civilization everywhere—crying out "There shall be no more war!" he thinks their voices are raised in idle, meaningless frenzy. It may be that he does not know that the sentiment of these women is the common sentiment of men as well; that it is at once an echo and an accentuation of the demand that stirs the continents.

The great nations may end war if they will. A code of justice applicable to all; only enough force to coerce the recalcitrant into good behavior; education, fraternity, an end to conquest. All these are needed.

Every time women that, in such gatherings as those marking Armistice day, show forth the detestation they entertain towards every form of wrong, and particularly towards the horrid form that war assumes, they are uplifting the nations towards that plane where peace may abide.

About this there is no delusion. The same countless throng of women who on Armistice day paid tribute to the soldier dead, were patriotic and brave in the war. They felt that it was a war for righteousness. They gave their sons and their sweethearts to it. As many as could, went overseas to share the perils. The others, at home, devoted themselves to providing comfort for the absent army.

Were similar conditions to arise again, it is not to be doubted that these women once more would do their part. They hold, however, that such conditions should not be permitted to rise again. That they hope and their prayer and "the prayer of the faithful shall be answered."

Carr's theme has been taken as a text because his treatment of it was typical, and because his conclusions should not be permitted to pass without challenge, and exposure of their fallacy.

If there were another world war, civilization would cease. It would pass from the oceans. The steep slopes are rare, and it is in such places that breaks in the scale usually occur.

Do You Know That—

Nowhere on dry land are there such vast flat plains as occur at the bottom of the oceans. The success of the submarine telegraphic cables is due in part to the flatness of the ocean bottom. Steep slopes are rare, and it is in such places that breaks in the scale usually occur.

PAUL GREEN TO SPEAK AT BANQUET

At the postponed banquet which the Hi-Y will give Monday evening for members of the football team of Glendale high school, Paul Green, right end on the U. S. C. football team, will be the speaker. His theme will be "Clean Athletics—Their Value to the School and the Individual." He will also give interesting information on how a university football team is trained. Mr. Green is a junior in U. S. C. this year, and is manager of the college paper, "The Trojan," and is an "all-state" end in football.
The Glendale Hi-Y is giving the banquet to the local team as an expression of its appreciation of the good clean work in athletics the team has been doing. Coach Pinal of Occidental would have been the speaker had the banquet taken place last Monday. It will be impossible for him to come next Monday evening because of a meeting of all the football coaches of Southern California at Whittier that night.

MISS LIVSEY WAS TUESDAY HOSTESS

Members of the Kindergarten club were entertained Tuesday afternoon by Miss Livsey at the Central avenue school. Tuesday Afternoon Club Authorizes Sale of Lots

Session Was One of Gift-bestowing Tuesday; Announcement That Olga Steeb, Pianiste, Will be Heard in Concert Here November 22nd, Received With Delight

Business occupied a considerable place at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club which was opened by the president, Mrs. Charles Hutchinson and afterwards turned over to Mrs. C. E. Marlenee, curator of the music section, which provided the program of the afternoon.

Mrs. A. M. Williams announced that the ways and means committee would take charge of the fancy work booth of the club fair with the assistance of the executive board, and that contributions would be welcome. Mrs. Williams also reported concerning the club's candidate, Mrs. Warren Roberts, in the queen contest and explained that back of the contest was the desire to help the boys of the local post and that the club had been able to perform through the unselfish generosity of Mrs. Warren Roberts in consenting to be a candidate and turn over to the club anything which might be realized through the use of her name. As a result tickets had been sold for Mrs. Roberts by the club in co-operation with the Glendale Music club, the P. E. O. and Glen Eyrle chapter of the Eastern Star, which brought the post $594.30. The 20 per cent to which the club was entitled amounted to $36.90.

Later Mrs. Roberts addressed the club, thanking it for its support of her candidacy and especially thanking the ladies who had worked in the sale of tickets. It had been a real pleasure to her, she said, and she wished to present to Mrs. Williams a check for the prize she had received, a handsome pin, which she would like to have sold for the benefit of the clubhouse fund. On behalf of the club Mrs. Williams protested and moved that the pin be again presented to Mrs. Roberts as a souvenir of her experience. The motion was passed unanimously in spite of Mrs. Roberts' protests that she had done it for the club and wished the club to have the full benefit.

It was a day of gifts, as the president read a letter from Mrs. J. W. Walton, to whom had been awarded the Ford automobile, enclosing a check for $25 towards the clubhouse fund.

The president also reported that Alfred Priest, the architect who had been commissioned to prepare plans for the clubhouse and to supervise its construction had proposed to give the club $750 in cash out of the regular fees he would receive on the commission.

Mrs. Hutchinson also acknowledged the gift of two objects of art for the new clubhouse received from Mrs. C. L. Peckham, one a photograph of the beautiful bunch of poinsettias were used in decorating.

A luncheon was served to the following guests: Mrs. Charles Blanchard, the guest of honor, Mrs. Leon Sonnag, Mrs. E. L. Pomeroy, Mrs. B. A. Stiles, Mrs. Hieman of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mary Brooks and Miss Elizabeth Ainsworth.

CONSTRUCTIVE MOTHER SUBJECT DISCUSSED

The Columbus Avenue P. T. A. will meet Thursday afternoon at the school at 3:15, following a session of the executive board at 2:30, over which the president, Mrs. C. H. Thompson will preside.

The address of the afternoon will be made by Mrs. A. A. Barton, whose theme will be "The Constructive Mother." Mrs. Donald McGill will contribute a reading and as a special feature there will be a question box.

MOTHERS ENJOYED CIRCLE PROGRAM

The meeting of the Christian Circle club Tuesday evening at the Baptist church was of unusual interest because the mothers of girl members were entertained at supper and for about 150.

The program included a delightful reading by Miss Morestat and another by Miss Helen Connor. There were also musical numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Connor. These were followed by the customary Bible study conducted by Miss Maude Soper. Good talks were then made by Miss Nell Leggett, president of the club, Miss Mildred Hamilton, a member of the executive committee, Signa Berg spoke to the theme, "The Club as it is Now." Mrs. Mercer, on behalf of the mother guests spoke on "Mothers' Thoughts of the C. C. Club." Dorothy Cotton spoke on "The Future of the Club." Dr. Laura Brown gave a talk on health and Christianity. Garnet Peters gave readings and Miss Evangeline Quackenbush a violin solo.

MRS. CREEL BEING VISITED BY SISTERS

Mrs. T. C. Creel of 126 South Jackson is one of the happiest women in Glendale this week, for she is enjoying a visit from three sisters whom she had not seen in years. They are Mrs. Hubert A. Garrison of St. Augustine, Fla.; Mrs. J. C. Poole of Honolulu, T. H.; and Mrs. F. L. Mays of Warrensburg, Mo. Today another sister, Mrs. Joe Greaves of Los Angeles, joined the group as did also Mrs. E. W. Rayburn of Riverside and Miss Lucy Franklin of Rankin, Ill. The latter teaches in the Whittier schools. She and Mrs. Rayburn are old friends of Mrs. Garrison.

MRS. WINTERSGILL GIVES LUNCHEON

Mrs. Florence Wintersgill of 411 North Louise street entertained at luncheon Tuesday in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Charles Blanchard. A group which participated in the minstrel show of a year ago, the other a framed copy of the poem presented by Miss Eva Daniels on Reciprocity day.

Following the program Mrs. Hutchinson reminded the club that the 30 days had expired in which the club had authorized her to sell the Brand boulevard lots for a price not less than $30,000 and she would like further instructions.

Mrs. Bosserman moved a continuation of the authority for another 30 days. Others asked for an interpretation of the instruction—whether it meant that the property could be sold at any time within the thirty days or whether 30 days must elapse before the sale could be made. Mrs. Oliver Clark and Mrs. P. S. McNutt assured the club the sale could be made at any time the price met the conditions and after some discussion as to whether it should include the five per cent commission, the club voted to fix the price of the three lots at $30,000, including the commission.

Announcement also made that Miss Olga Steeb will be the entertainer at the meeting of November 22 in stead of the lecture by Baroness Ottilie de Ropp, which would be postponed until a later date.

A charming program was given by talent from the music section and a few assisting outsiders. It opened and closed with numbers by the Nevin Quintette, composed of Mesdames Helen Cole, Frank Arnold, Albert Draper, C. A. Parker and L. N. Hagood, who on their first appearance sang "The Thrush at Eve" (Cadman) and an encore number, "The Year at the Spring," their closing numbers being "The Four Leaved Clover," "Since You Went Away" and as an encore the lullaby, "Swing Low."

Mrs. Hagood also served as accompanist for Mary Louise Hand, who whistled most charmingly a waltz song by Anita Owen, "The Charm of Spring" (Clark) and "Comin' Thro' the Rye" as an encore.

A descriptive and brilliant piano number, Polonaise in A flat by Chopin, was then played by Mrs. Hagood, who vividly interpreted the musical picture of a gorgeous parade or pageant before royalty. As a contrasting number she gave as an encore the familiar Chopin waltz.

The vocalist of the afternoon was Mrs. Alice Harwood Farish, a professional and newcomer to Glendale, who sang with fine effect "In Verdure Clad" (Haydn), "Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song" and "I Know," her accompanist being Mrs. Lilla Litch, who is also a newcomer and an artist at the piano

PRICE OF TURKEY IS BOOSTED UP HIGH BY PROFITEERS

FASHION SHOPPE LATEST ADDITION

Over 100,000 Are Shipped From Texas to Markets Over Nation

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The price of turkey and other Thanksgiving food-stuffs are being run up by food profiteers, B. J. Van Cott, Sr., of the New York Produce exchange charged today.

"Prices are advancing steadily, due to the manipulation of these profiteers, and prospects are that the holiday dinner will cost just as much this year as last—if not more," Van Cott said in an interview with the United Press. "Turkeys jumped to 52 cents on the exchange today. Last year the peak was 55 cents."

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Turkey for Thanksgiving dinner will be 15 cents a pound cheaper than last year. The bird of feast will sell from 43 to 50 cents a pound. A large supply caused the lower price.

CUERO, Texas, Nov. 16.—The last of the Thanksgiving turkeys will leave by express for northern and eastern Thanksgiving tables tomorrow. With the big shipment of packed turkeys shipped from the world's greatest turkey district this year will total nearly 100,000. The turkey crop this year is only about 85 per cent of last year's crop.

ANOTHER BID

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Secretary of War Weeks today received another bid on the Muscle Shoals plant. It came from W. T. James of Tennessee, who offers to buy the power of the plant if the government would complete the Wilson dam. Secretary Weeks said he will take up the James offer only after the Henry Ford bid has received careful consideration.

Mme. Geraldine Will Have Personal Supervision of Women's Shop

A new business establishment in Glendale is the Fashion Shoppe, the home of fine dress-making, ladies' tailoring, and ready-to-wear garments for ladies. Madame Geraldine, a designer and fitter from New York, will have personal supervision. Madame Geraldine was formerly connected with Harry Collins of New York and Paris. Mr. Collins was afforded the honor of designing and making the inaugural gowns for Mrs. Harding, wife of the president of the United States. Madame was also connected with Mr. Hass, one of New York's leading woman's wear designers and manufacturers.

Madame Geraldine, whose establishment will be in the Berman building on South Brand boulevard, will be in constant touch with very latest New York fashions, so that everyone visiting this artist will be sure of securing the very latest design from the east. The same finish in workmanship and style will be given at a moderate outlay as is afforded the "400" of New York. Glendale people are indeed fortunate in having such a distinctly talented lady as Madame Geraldine located in this city, and she will doubtless be the recipient of a large percentage of the patronage in the lady's tailoring line from the women of Glendale.

GRAPES SELL HIGH

PENN. YAN, N. Y., Nov. 16.—The Late Keuka grape crop was several weeks earlier than usual this year. Favorable grape weather made this possible. The farmers are happy. They have contracted their grape crop this year at $150 per ton. This is the best price ever received. A few years ago these same farmers were "doing well" when the crop was marketed at $20 to $30 a ton.

MURDER CHARGE IS RESULT MOONSHINE

DENVER, Nov. 16.—Information charging murder probably will be filed today against Henry Stone and Mrs. Lillie Davis of Denver, in connection with the death here last week of Edward McCool, wealthy Cleveland manufacturer, it was indicated at the district attorney's office. A coroner's jury found that McCool died from alcoholic poisoning. The two persons under arrest were members of the party at a rooming house where McCool suddenly expired after taking a drink of moonshine liquor.

LITTLE WAR WAIF HAD ALL THE FIXINS

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A bottle of scent, two tins of toilet powder, a cake of soap, two bottles containing milk, a cardboard box containing clothing, a feeding bottle and a note were found with a baby boy which was left on the mat at the front doorstep of a resident at Bondi, near Sydney, Australia.
The note stated: "Please give him to somebody who will love him and be kind to him. His father deserted him and I am nearly destitute."

savings account for the children at the FIRST SAVINGS BANK OF GLENDALE is Christmas time! To find, 'way down in the toe of Santa's stocking on Christmas morning a deposit book will afford them untold joy, for, truly, they'll be "growing up"—even to a bank account! And the habit of saving, if formed while they're young, will endure throughout the years—yes, even unto old age. If you can instill in your children the instinct of saving, just think how much trouble and suffering it will save them when they are older. Think how much you might have been saved, had you only known that inevitably, sooner or later, the rainy day must come! A savings account at the First Savings Bank (just around the corner from the First National Bank, on E. Broadway) will earn interest at the rate of five per cent per annum. After but a few years, this, you know, will amount to quite a nest egg—enough to send them to college, or, perhaps, start them in business for themselves when they come of age. Don't wait the last minute, but join the throng of other wise mothers and open a savings account for your boy or girl today at the First Savings Bank.

RAINY DAY CLUB WAS ORIGINATOR OF SHORT SKIRTS

Meant to Keep Women From Sweeping Streets Taking Germs Home

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The secret is out: Short skirts are a reform movement! But the original reformers now declare their idea was carried too far. The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rainy Day club has just been celebrated here, and it was disclosed that the club was organized in the nineties to do away with the long, trailing dresses worn by women on the theory that they were unsanitary. Five or six business women wanted to abolish the fashion of sweeping the streets and dumping the dust on the parlor rugs at home. And so the short-skirt movement was born.

Mrs. A. M. Palmer, president of the club for the last twenty-four years, said the little group of serious thinkers decided to wear skirts four inches above the ground. "Wherever we appeared we were jeered at and hooted," she said. "Men would make sly remarks upon our appearance; women in carriages looked scornfully down on us and drew their own draped, trailing skirts more closely about them. We were looked upon as freaks. When we entered the fashionable districts on charitable missions we were stoned by small boys. It was a dangerous and humiliating experience. Soon we had new members and a new club room."

Modistes Take Up Idea
"I can't say just when the modistes started taking up the idea we had launched, but it was about two years after we had begun wearing shorter skirts. Finally society women, who had looked askance from their carriages, came down to the ground and saw first-hand what our movement was doing; a few of them copied our style, and then the modistes got busy. We had marshalled statistics proving that the sweeping skirts worn by the women carried germs into the home."

"We were contented with the skirt which just cleared the ground by four inches. That meant comfort and freedom for us. But when the modistes got busy it was different. First came the six-inches-from-the-ground skirt. Then they grew longer again. Some years they were wide and sometimes narrow. But try as they would they could not get the trailing skirts in style to stay again. Woman once freed of an encumbrance like that will never revert to it again of her own free will."

Skirts Get Shorter
"It was only in recent years that the movement got out of hand entirely and with leaps and bounds the skirts began to go up, up, up, and there's no knowing where they will stop. I think the word 'modesty' should be eliminated from the dictionary as useless—meaning nothing to the girl or woman of today. I am positive that short skirts are here to stay. I only hope, in the interest of decency, that we can come to a compromise on the length which will at least partially cover the exposures now in vogue."
And in the meantime the latest fashion edict from Paris is that short skirts will be worn no longer. That is to say, that while remaining relatively short, the short skirt will no longer be worn, or at least—well, anyway—!

ERNESTINE SHOWS UP WITH BIG EGG

STRATHMORE, Alta., Nov. 16.—The mythical goose that laid the golden egg had nothing on a proud little bantam aristocrat on the farm of Hugh Berry. In the time-worn tale there is nothing to indicate that the golden egg was of more than usual size. In this respect, at least, the immortal goose was a piker.
Ernestine, the little purebred Black Minorca, claims the Dopplinger record for size. In the struggle with several other champions for supremacy, Ernestine laid an egg having a circumference of 9 3/16 inches. It weighed 5 1/2 ounces.

Wisconsin's industrial commission is going to take up the question of rates by private employment agencies in the entire state. The state civil service commission, the labor unions and the city service commission will also be represented.

PUT AND TAKE MAKE BIG HIT ABROAD WITH ENGLISH

American Sailors Say London is All Het Up Over New American Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Although the gentle indoor pastime known as "African dominoes" never did go very well in that dear London another American game of chance has invaded Whitechapel and Piccadilly. This is the comparatively new American game of "put and take," an American sailors' returning from England declare that "Takin' is the thing they are fond of over there."

Albert La Toy, of the Cunard liner Berengaria, said the shillings and pence are changing hands in greater number with the top than ever passed over the galloping dice. The top has also made its appearance in Paris, according to La Toy, and the putters and takers are important factors in the night life of the gay French capital.

"Somehow, when I play 'put and take' over there, that darned top can't say anything but 'Put,' said La Toy. "The English never did quite fancy shooting craps. They never could learn the slang of the game."

"The top got the boys dizzy around Southampton and Liverpool. Pretty soon the shills got them, and now everybody, rich and poor, are slaves to the whirl-gambling device."

"One reason the English like the top is because the player doesn't have to do any talking. The top does that. All you do is listen and smile—or weep."

Along the waterfront at Liverpool and Southampton, he said, it is a common sight to see a group of port workers and sailors spinning the little top. At Cherbourg, France, little bunches of Frenchmen congregate to tempt the Goddess of Chance as represented by the "put and take" top.

POLICEMAN HELPS GIRL FIND LOVER

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 16.—What would have made an ideal O. Henry story with an ideal O. Henry touch and punch occurred here when policeman W. S. Morgan found a young and pretty girl on the streets of the city at two o'clock in the morning crying. Under ordinary circumstances, and with an ordinary policeman, the young woman might have been severely questioned, and probably escorted to police headquarters to give an account of herself, but in this case it was different. The policeman asked the girl her name, and she promptly told him she was Miss Catherine Moore, of Columbus, Ga., and she was seeking her sweetheart, Arthur Edwards, a hotel clerk, who had come here recently.

It so happened that of all people in Atlanta, Patrolman Morgan knew Arthur, and knew the hotel where he was working as a night clerk, and which the young lady had completely forgotten. Accordingly, lover met lover, and the next day Patrolman Morgan found himself playing the part of best man at the wedding between the two.

SEAMAN IS GOOD TO HIS FORMER WIFE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—John Bold, a Seaman, wealthy paper merchant, offered $25,000 to his wife if she remarried. Seaman's offer was included in a set of stipulations filed in the Brooklyn supreme court along with a referee's report recommending that his wife be granted a divorce.

ATTORNEYS CLASH ARBUCKLE CASE

Charge Defense Has Tried to Tamper With Witnesses for State

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Charges that representatives of Roscoe "Patty" Arbuckle "approached" state witnesses in Los Angeles were hurled today during the second session of Arbuckle's trial for alleged manslaughter. Deputy District Attorney Milton U'Ren declared during a clash with defense attorneys that he would attempt to show Arbuckle's friends "approached" Alice Blake and E. F. Pyron on the street, even after the two star witnesses against Arbuckle were alleged to have been under surveillance of the prosecution. The charge was made while George R. Morgan was being examined as a prospective juror. Morgan said that he would require proof of the charges before he would let them influence his verdict in the case.

"The prosecution had these witnesses in cold storage for six weeks under the surveillance of Mrs. Duffy of the district attorney's office," said McNab. "Just a minute ago you were talking about their being on the grill," laughed U'Ren.

"We will show that they were approached by a man who said he was from the Arbuckle crowd in Los Angeles," added U'Ren, "and that he said he had something important to tell them."

McNab again attacked the women's vigilance committee of San Francisco for "attempting to meddle in the Arbuckle case."

"This committee of women is formed to take part in civic affairs and betterment and in politics, something guaranteed to them by the constitution," said U'Ren.

"Yes," replied McNab, "but their activities should stop at the court room door."

GAMBLERS BET ON PIGEON'S MOVES

DEFIANCE, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Curb gambling has started here. The gamblers stood across the street from the county courthouse. Their wagers were made on the probable time a pigeon perched on the big minute hand of the courthouse clock, could maintain his lofty perch.

The longest guess was five minutes. But the bird clung fast until twenty minutes later, when the bell tolled five. Soon after the striking ceased the bird returned to the clock and rode the hand fifteen minutes longer.

International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers will soon be housed in its own building in Kansas City. The work, which was begun in March, is progressing rapidly.

FRIENDS OF DEBS ASK FOR PARDON

President is Now Besieged With Requests for Aged Man's Pardon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Now that the President has taken the final step by issuing the proclamation of peace between the United States and Germany, friends of Eugene V. Debs believe the release from prison of the socialist leader is only a matter of weeks.

Renewed energy has been injected into their efforts to secure his release from Atlanta. Scores of letters and telegrams are reaching President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty daily asking for immediate pardon for Debs and the 140 others jailed during the war for violating the espionage act. Delegations of soldiers and others call every few days on Harding in behalf of the political prisoners.

HANDS HARD ONES TO ROYAL ACADEMY

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Criticism of this year's paintings in the Royal Academy comes from the Tailor and Cutter, the organ of the London and provincial tailors, which remarks that "the portraits of the Academy present a legion of sloven."

"My lady's dress," whether of silk or the modern wool jumper, is," it says, "beautifully painted, but as to the dress of the men, some look like 'reach me downs' from Bond street, while others are like East End bargains, while much of the attire would be smiled at by a scarecrow."

Of a group called "Sea Officers of the War," the critic remarks: "If naval tailors really turned out such clothes there would be torrents of breezy and expressive language."

Other criticisms include: Field Marshal Earl Haig's gray cloak. Really the war was not won with such clothes.

Sir W. McCormack's lounge suit—"The trousers are like sacks, and the bottom of the right trousers leg is as big as a bluejacket's."

Sir Rider Haggard has been given "an awful overcoat, so baggy, hanging in such ugly, pendulous folds that it looks more like a gown."

Rear Admiral Sir Douglas Brown, Chief Censor in the war, "This portrait needs a clothes censor."

FROST FAILS STOP NATURE IN OHIO

ST. CLOUDS, Ohio, Nov. 16.—The claims of frost has not reduced the supply of nature freaks in this part of Belmont county.

A pear tree is blooming in the yard at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bentley, near Lloydsville. Isaac H. Gaston, former Belmont county probate judge, has a nineteen-foot castor bean plant in his garden. Earl Thomas, of Martins Ferry, brought in a large ear of corn with three smaller ones growing from the base of the ear, all containing full-sized grains.

A. E. Nichol, editor of the Weekly Gazette, became disgusted with the small bean pods brought in by subscribers who desired publicity and grew a pod forty-four inches long on a Japanese bean vine.

J. F. Hollingsworth, of Flushing, has a stalk of corn with four ears of corn, one at each joint, measuring a total of twenty-eight and one-half inches, one of the ears being eight inches long and the shortest six inches. Hollingsworth said the neighborhood never saw a group of such large ears on one stalk.

ALICE GENTLE WILL THRILL GLENDALE DECEMBER 2ND

Glendale Music Club to Bring Noted Singer Here for Concert

With the certainty that Alice Gentle is to sing in Glendale December 2 at the next concert of the Glendale Music club it is of interest to know something of the early life of this wonderful singer and for that reason the following story of beginnings is offered to our readers:

Truth is so much stranger than fiction. If anyone, some few years ago had told the home folks in the little Kansas town where Alice Gentle was "raised" that she would take her place among the great ones of the operatic stage, probably the only one who would have believed it would have been Alice herself. For among her other pre-eminent gifts is that fundamental one without which no artist has ever achieved—faith—belief—the abiding consciousness of ultimate achievement.

The church choir was the first rung of the ladder and by dint of such economies as only genius knows how to "discontinue" she eventually reached New York and a place in the chorus of the opera then being promoted by Oscar Hammerstein. With such an eagle eye as that of the great impresario hovering over the Manhattan Opera, the superb mezzo-soprano voice, brilliant beauty, the vivacity, the zest to learn, the eagerness to achieve, displayed by the little lady from the corn belt could not long remain hid and with the first real opportunities given her by Oscar Hammerstein came the first of the emphatic successes which latterly have placed the name of Alice Gentle high indeed.

The intervening years have been spent on the stages of the great opera houses of the world—the LaScala in Milan, the Colon, Buenos Aires, Metropolitan Opera, New York, with several seasons at the summer opera at Ravinia Park, Chicago—and "transcontinental tours of the Scotti Opera company."

It is in the emotional roles that Alice Gentle has scored her greatest triumphs. She is considered one of the greatest Carmen and is freely mentioned in comparison with Calve and other famous impersonators of this colorful character. She is more over one of the few singers whose acting is always commented upon. She is in the truest sense of the word a singing actress.

WIDEN RIVER BALK PUEBLO'S FLOODS

Missouri Pacific Gives City 70 Foot Strip of Land Along River

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 16.—The first practical step in an effort to minimize the danger from further disastrous floods, similar to the one that engulfed this city early in June of this year, was taken here when an agreement was reached between the Missouri Pacific Railroad and Pueblo city and county officials whereby the railroad company will turn over to the city a strip of land in its local yards, which will be utilized in widening the channel of the Arkansas River.

The land relinquished by the railroad is at a spot where the Arkansas broke through on the night of June 3, resulting in the worst flood the city has ever known, causing a property loss of upward of $15,000,000 and taking a death toll of approximately 200.

The land extends from a point on the south bank of the Arkansas River to the eastern limits of the railroad yards. Engineering experts are planning, with the acquisition of this land, to cut a channel at the egress of the Arkansas River from the city that will be seventy feet wider than it was before the June floods and about 100 feet wider than the channel of the river as it passes through the central section of Pueblo.

Below the new channel present obstructions will be removed, and dredging will start at once that will put the river's course near natural bluffs on its north bank. The Missouri Pacific Railroad already has constructed a heavy "slag" embankment to protect its tracks along the south bank of the river, and a levee sufficiently strong to protect against raging torrents will be built.

Work of reconstruction throughout the city has progressed rapidly since the devastation of last summer.

INDICT NEGRO FOR DEATH MRS. REED

DENVER, Nov. 16.—Charges of murder were to be preferred today against William Tyson, negro, who shot and killed Mrs. Isabel Reed, white, of Los Angeles, during the Armistice day celebration here. A stray bullet from Tyson's revolver, which he was firing in the air, struck Mrs. Reed, killing her instantly. The woman was in an automobile en route to the union station to board a train for Los Angeles when the shooting occurred.

MORGANSTEIN PASSES EAST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 16.

The funeral of Louis A. Morganstein, retired theatrical manager, who died here last night, will be held Thursday. He was born in New York City, 70 years ago. He was manager of the Baldwin theater, San Francisco, until it burned 20 years ago, when he came east.

Mail Ballots.—Ballots for the "finals" for the election of six members to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce will be mailed the latter part of this week. All votes must be in by November 29, when the ballots will be counted. No ballots received by mail will be counted. Those voting must call at the chamber of commerce headquarters and deposit their votes personally in the ballot box.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE ANT AND THE SKIPPER

An Ant and a Skipper

Met once in a cheese:
"My, my! what snug quarters!"
The Ant said, "are these."
"Oh, yes," said the Skipper.
"They're snug as you please.
But I have to confess
I am tired of cheese."

"I find it delicious."
The Ant said, "It's strange
That you should dislike it."
"For you it's a change."
The Skipper responded,
"The diet agrees."

With you, but for me,
I was born in a cheese."

"Oh, dear," said the Ant,
"I was born in a hill,
It was always a struggle
Our ladder to fill.
A cheese such as this
Is a treasure right grand
When you spend all your life
In a desert of sand."

"Pray eat," said the Skipper,
"As much as you please,
For me there will always
Be plenty of cheese.
And I can assure you
No cheese would be grand
For me as that waterless
Desert of sand."

"I don't understand it,"
The puzzled Ant cried,
"I knew that you wouldn't."
The Skipper replied,
"You live in a sand-pile
By wits, if you please,
But do not forget
I was born in a cheese."

An Ant and a Skipper
Met once in a cheese,
Said the Ant: "I should like
Some such quarters as these."
"Quite so," said the Skipper,
"Won't you leave, if you please
The address of your ant-hill?
I'm tired of cheese!"

P. O. Department Points to Troubles in Handling Small Envelopes

First Assistant Postmaster-General Hubert Work has, through the Glendale branch of the Los Angeles office, sent the following communication to the people of Glendale regarding the sending of cards and small envelopes through the mails during the holiday season.

"The postoffice always needs your assistance, but in one particular especially, just at this time. During the holiday season, large quantities of very small envelopes and cards are put into the mails with the result that all postal work is very much retarded and mail disfigured and mutilated.

This is not generally known to the public and we want you to help us do a little educating. The minimum size of cards and envelopes should not be below 3 1/2 by 4 inches for the following reasons:

"1. Addresses will be obliterated by cancellation mark.
"2. Too small to be run through facing table, necessitating three extra handlings with consequent delay, not only to this but to other mail matter.
"3. Delay in cancellation because of awkwardness in putting through cancellation machines.
"4. Delayed through difficulty in sorting.
"5. Liability to loss or damage, as small sizes do not fit letter packages and cannot be tied securely.

"These odd and diminutive pieces of stationery have come into use in the past few years and only appear now in any quantities at Christmas time, when the whole postal institution is keyed up to top speed and trying to keep on top of the load.

"We will greatly appreciate, therefore, your co-operation in helping us to get the public to use stationery of the proper size in order that the handling of all mail may be expedited."

BOLEN HERE TAKE CHARGE BUSINESS

After successfully culminating his business operations in Chicago, John L. Bolen has arrived in Glendale to take charge of the Bolen Real Estate Co., 206 West Broadway, which, up to this time, has been operated by Mrs. Bolen. For years Mr. Bolen has been active in real estate and law, and comes to Glendale well fitted for the work of dispensing the valuable and rapidly-selling pieces of property to be found in this locality.

Bruce Kurtz, who has been connected with this firm for about a month, will continue active service in the office. Business is good, says this firm, and the members are well pleased with the business prospects in this city.

NEBRASKA GUSHER

OMAHA, Nov. 16.—An oil well being drilled north of Rushville, Neb., is reported in at 1000 barrels, according to a special dispatch from Alliance.

ROY GARDNER WAS CAPTURED ARIZONA

officials, and confessed to his identity, the police said. No statement could be obtained from the man himself. He was held incommunicado.

The man was captured this morning after a fierce battle on a Los Angeles bound train by Herman Inderlied, a clerk. Another would-be bandit who was with him escaped. Two United States marines, guarding another mail train on the east-bound track, aided Inderlied in taking the man to jail after he had been severely battered in a fist battle.

Newspapermen could get but a brief glimpse of the man as he was taken behind barred doors for the "third degree" here, following capture. He was a man of about six feet in height and appeared to weigh from 180 to 190 pounds. Inderlied, his captor, was two inches taller and weighed 220 pounds.

Gardner's capture brings to an end—perhaps—the career of the most daring train robber and the most sensational bandit in the West since he made his last escape from the penitentiary on Labor Day while watching a prison ball game at McNeill's Island federal penitentiary, where he was serving a 25-year sentence for train robbery.

He dashed from the sidelines where he was watching the ball game and, amid a hail of bullets, cut through a barbed-wire fence and lost himself in the brush and woods of the island. For weeks he was sought on the island and, in fact, throughout the northwest. He went to McNeill's Island after having been captured at Centralia, Wash., where he was found after he had escaped from guards on a train near Portland while being taken from San Francisco to McNeill's Island.

Previous to that he had escaped from other guards near Portland and had been recaptured after robbing a train near Sacramento. His career started at San Diego and had taken him as far north as British Columbia.

The capture took place on A. T. & S. F. train No. 170, ten minutes before it was due to pull out of the Santa Fe station. Two bandits boarded the mail car through the sliding doors, which had been left open, according to Inderlied. His back was turned, he said, and he did not hear nor see them until a gun was thrust against him. He turned quickly and knocked the gun from the bandit's hand. A fight ensued immediately. The second bandit, who was in the center of the car, turned, jumped through the door and ran. Inderlied overpowered the man who had attempted to hold him up, and called for aid from the eastbound train on the opposite track. Two marines responded. With Inderlied, they unmasked the captured bandit and dragged him to police headquarters.

TACOMA, Nov. 16.—Warden Thomas Maloney of McNeill Island prison was informed of Roy Gardner's capture over long distance telephone.

"Are you sure?" was his first remark.

"Of course we will jail him again," said Maloney, "but we won't put him in solitary confinement. We could if we so desired. He will have to serve his full term of 25 years now. Parole and making up of good time are lost to him because of his escape. Labor day."

More than 100 meetings were held by the committee and none of them received any remuneration whatever. The lots mortgaged to Mrs. Jones, Bank of Glendale, and the Meeker lot were decided to have foreclosure, one is encumbered with trust deed to Mrs. Schofield and title to the King lot is held by P. E. Ry, Co.

THE FOX IS PROUD OF HIS CRAFT

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers)

How that smarty fox was laughing in his fur. The Big Marsh was home to him. Why for? 'Cause he knew its mudholes were just one long chain of traps. They'd catch any one big enough to hurt him, and Tommy Peele's trap held Dr. Muskrat. (You remember the time.) Only he didn't feel sorry for the folks who got caught, like Tommy did. He just laughed at them.

How he was laughing at Redskin the Colt, who was plunging so hard in one that the two little boys on his back felt as if they were being tossed on the sea in a very small

OPPORTUNITIES

Perhaps no city in the nation offers better business opportunities than does Glendale today. Dozens of new enterprises are opening up, building is active, and property values are steadily rising.

But to the man without capital or credit, these opportunities mean nothing, because he is not prepared to take advantage of them.

"Money in the bank" is the sure touchstone that opens the way to business success. Without it, even the best of opportunities are valueless.

You soon can have that ready money if you start laying it up in a Savings Account today.
